Vancleave Consolidated High School
Vancleave, Mississippi

Prologue

Several years hence someone pictured in this book might make this mark, "Now, children, on page 17 is how I looked back in '49." This the purpose of your book, to recall pleasant menories. Did I say pleasant? No, they weren't all that way, but that's the way of the world

We are grateful for the flowers given us by Mrs. Etta Ramsay, Mrs. Horn, J. A. Ramsay, C. L. Dees, T. L. Murphy, and anyone else who mishave discovered some flowers missing from their yards. These picture representing school life from the beginning year through graduating you will see on the title pages of the Annual.

With a lot of work, but not without a great deal of pleasure, we proud to present—YOUR ANNUAL.

On a Senior Class trip to New Orleans we had an hour of extra time before the train pulled out to Mississippi. While strolling around killing time, we came upon an enticing sigh, "Madam X, Fortune teller". Being of a curious nature, we decided to have our future lives looked into.

Florian, our leader, went in first to investigate any possible foul play. He came out grinning because the verdict was very pleasing to him. In fifteen years, time was to find Florian, after considering a career with MGM, settled down as a noted lawyer in Hollywood and living in one of those rambling type houses. The Madam declared that a chic blond was standing in the doorway. (Could this be his wife or one of his many maids?)

Cotton, very enthusistic over Florian's future, decided to give it a try. When he returned we gathered around him, anxious to hear what he had to say. The crystal ball revealed Joyce seated on a bright red tractor, breaking ground on his large north Mississippi delta farm. There, too, were seen several little Mitchells very busily helping their father. Joyce, true to his nature of holding more jobs than one, was the coach of a near-by football team. We can just hear Joyce saying, "I'm really puttin' them boys through!"

Roberta marched in third. She stayed longer than the boys, probably arguing over her fate. This was her report. Giving up dancing classes long since, she had settled in Oregon with Billy, who was foreman of one of the largest lumber companies in that state. Their beautiful home was on a quiet lake, but the quietness was often disturbed by their energetic twins, Caralyn and Jairlyn.

Nelda's turn was next. Madam X predicted that Nelda would be one of the leading dress designers in New York, but while Nelda was contemplating a brilliant career, a tall, handsome guy popped up right in the middle of the crystal ball! We wonder what he'll have to say about her career—will it be designing or house keeping?

Bee, although not thoroughly believing in fortune tellers, went in to complete the picture of the future of the seniors. In a white uniform, she had just resigned her position as superintendent of nurses at Mobile Infirmary and was taking up surgery. The head surgeon was a red-headed man, and we wonder what that had to do with it, knowing her weakness along that line.

The train whistle blew, interrupting our dreams of the future. There was a scramble in boarding the train for home—at the end of a perfect day.

Senior Will

We, the departing seniors of Vancleave High School, Vancleave, Missispi, do hereby bequeth our most valuable assets to our friends.

To R. E. Bryan, because of his patience in working with such a group we leave our undying gratitude and respect.

- I, Joyce Mitchell, will my red tractor to Zelma Bosarge and my crutches to all future basketball players.
- I, Florian Ware, will my "come hither look" to Lorenzo Fairley. Variety, Loren, is the spice of life. My mustache I leave to Leo Holden and my singing to Bobby Ross.
- I, Nelda Gamblin, will my athletic ability to Katherine Tillman. Just practice, Kat, and you'll be as good as I. The hair that I cut off, I leave to Fay Carnley.
- I, Beatrice Ellis, will my make-up to Evelyn Jennings and my calmness to Geraldine Atwell. Being yourself often gets you places.
- I, Roberta Knorr, will my impudence to Ira T. Havens. One has to take up for himself, you know. Colleen Cole, I leave you my ability to dance.

To the teachers, we leave the unmentioned talants that everyone know we have, though we are too modest to mention them.

F. F. A. CREED

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds--achievements won by the present and past generations of farmers; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come up to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of farm life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of organized farmers to serve our own and the public interest in marketing the product of our toil. I believe we can safeguard those rights against practises and policies that are unfair.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so--for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.
